Super Glue Detective

The Original Super Glue can be used to bond so many materials – aluminum, ceramic, china, rubber, pottery, wood – that we often forget that it also has some pretty novel uses as well. In our search to discover all the ways that people use our products, we came across this handy how-to video, which revisits an old tactic from “Beverly Hills Cop.” As it turns out, you really can check for fingerprints using Super Glue (although the technique used in the video is a little more complicated than the way Eddie Murphy did it).

If you’re interested in playing amateur detective (a fun activity for children and adults alike), you can read full article for more info.

Super Glue holds strong, lasts long, and dries fast, so it's no wonder that we're always finding new ways to use it. Despite the number of ding repair kits on the market, it seems that surfers often use Super Glue to repair minor damage to their beloved boards.

One message board at Surfer Magazine offered some illuminating advice for sealing small cracks on the surface of the board. According to the message board, a few dabs of Super Glue on spider cracks or small dings can provide a water-tight seal that keeps your board from turning yellow and getting water-logged.

Super Glue: “The Household Fix All!”

Some of our best product use ideas come directly from satisfied customers. George C., from Kalamazoo, MI, sent us this photo of a “porcelain bamboo vase which was broken into a couple dozen pieces and put back together with Super Glue Gel.” George suggests using super glue “sparingly, it doesn't take much to achieve a strong bond with household items.” We agree!!

Add Zap-A-Gap to your Fly

Fishing Maintenance Kit

Fly Fishing is both a sport and an art! It is important to always be prepared for whatever emergency situation might arise. A “Traveling Angler’s Maintenance Kit” is a great idea that came to us via The FlyFishing Shop Insider Newsletter ... Here’s what they suggest carrying along in the kit:

- Zap-A-Gap Super Glue
- A screw driver set that fits all screws on your reels
- Extra tip-tops that fit your rods
- Fly Line Cleaner

Happy Fishing!
